

COMPETITION

Biobased Economy – what’s in it for you?

Why do we invite to this competition?

So far, world economy is mainly oil-based. Gradually, however, we are moving towards a more sustainable “Bio-Based Economy” (BBE). Nevertheless, not everybody knows what BBE is or how many different aspects and consequences it has. Therefore, the partners of the EU-funded project “EBBEY – Entering the Biobased Economy” hereby invite you to participate. Main target of the competition is to make students and teachers interested in BBE and to introduce the concept of BBE into the school programs.

What is it all about?

You and your students should work out your understanding of BEE. For instance, you can make a film, a photo-story, a music piece or a song, a theater play; or you can organize an exhibition for your own school, develop practical school experiments for BEE (think of biogas, energy alternatives). Or what about organizing a study presentation or a study trip.

Who can participate?

Students of secondary vocational education, especially in the “green” sector, supported by teachers and parents can participate.

What is to be submitted – when and where?

Your contribution and the filled-in registration form must be forwarded mail before the 15 June 2015 to your national jury. If approved, your national jury will send your contribution to the international jury on the 15 August 2015.

Who will judge your contributions and on which criteria?

A jury composed of all partners of the EBBEY project determines the winner. The assessment is made according to these criteria: idea, creativity, originality and quality of the implementation.

What you can win?

The winning student and his/her teacher will be invited for the EBBEY conference in Luxembourg 6 November 2015. Travel and accommodation is covered by the EBBEY project. The winner must present his contribution to the audience in English.

The numbers 2 and 3 in the competition will be invited to do their presentations via video-conferencing.

What else?

The competition documents can be downloaded from: www.ebbey-project.eu
You must respect copyrights of photos, texts, music etc. used in your contribution.
Legal complaint is excluded.
